Analogue to digital, acoustic to electric - the sound of ambiance mixing with the bite of something raw. 4 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Electronica, METAL/PUNK: British Punk Details: Imminent Departure formed in December 2007. Guitarist/Vocalist Nic Taylor has previously played in London based punk bands, and more recently has been writing and recording as solo act Kill Your Heroes. Synth player Sarah B has recorded music for short films as part of her audio/visual duo Spectral Response. Both artists noticed each others work, and mutual admiration for bands and solo artists such as Ultravox!, Adam The Ants, Psychedelic Furs, John Foxx, Bauhaus, Simple Minds, Kraftwerk, Gary Numan to name but a few, and decided to combine their musical interests and ideas. This mixture of raw edged and ambient styles is the foundation for Imminent Departure's sound. Here are some comments Imminent Departure have received regarding tracks that feature on their 'Conjecture' EP.... "Your track 'Imminent Departure' sounds delicious, awesome. Very ambient." "Imminent Departure is a beautiful track with a nice theme and inspiring for mind movies." "Guys, this collaboration sounds amazing has a real cool 'Gentlemen Take Polaroids' vibe." "Some lovely synth work and really good vocals, Looking forward to more!" "Just listened to At The Edge Darker Than Blue. Great work." "Just listened to Darker Than Blue. What a wonderful track. Great guitar playing and synths led by some very strong vocals and lyrics." "Just listened to 'Now I Can Breathe' and that's a great song you've both written. Sounds quite like a mix of early Ultravox! and Magazine (absolutely brilliant band too!). The guitars and synth are working very well together." " I almost always like a mixture of instruments, electronic and traditional. Very emotive sound indeed." "Must say that 'At The Edge Of My Mind' is VERY like the Cocteau Twins (that's a good thing, by the way, absolutely one of my favourite bands), but with male vocals." "'Imminent Departure', your first piece together, is a really good track. Definitely has a Twin Peaks/X Files-ish vibe to it. Very much like a film or TV series theme." "Now I Can Breathe is a great song guys! Like the vocal a lot - reminds me of Richard Butler."
