"One of the best CD's of 2003!" -- Child Magazine, Dec. 2003 "One of our Top Ten of 2003!" -- Nick Jr. Magazine, Dec. 2003 "'Bad Mood Mom' is magical, memorable, and melodic." - Jamie Lee Curtis Four-time Emmy Award-winning Jamie Broza has burst onto the children's entertainment scene with his new studio CD, Bad Mood Mom. Broza, a father of three, looks at life through the eyes of a child from ages one to seven, in musical styles ranging from rock to gospel to jazz. What is this CD like? Imagine if a kid wrote a rock 'n roll song about those times when his mom was super stressed and super grumpy. Or a '70s style funk song from a kid who "just turned six last Saturday night" and is "so happy 'bout it!" Or "Secrets," a four-year-old's description of his private, no-other-siblings-allowed, play dates with his grandparents. The CD also contains "Are We There Yet?" a definitive - and hilarious - interplay between parents and their children on a car trip, complete with incessant teasing, arguing grown-ups, and a harmonica-practicing brother. Any parents who have ever found themselves at the end of their rope will relate to Bad Mood Mom, and kids will find these songs as funny and right-on as their parents do. Pop this CD into your car's CD player and you are guaranteed a quiet and fascinated backseat!
