San Francisco based Diggsville offers true downbeat groove, lush evocative vocals, chill beats, hot horns and tripped sound clips for an irresistible blend of retro and contemporary elements. 10 MP3 Songs

ELECTRONIC: Down Tempo, POP: with Electronic Production Details: From the moment Diggsville took the stage, their eclectic sets of funky lounge groove and downtempo mix put Bay Area bookers and fans on their ears. Evoking musical effects of Portishead, Massive Attack, Sneaker Pimps and St. Germain, Diggsville's lush female vocals, dreamy keys, enigmatic samples, funky bass, driving drums and wild sax unite for a uniquely seductive blend of retro and contemporary elements. Diggsville began as a musical entity while contributing to the soundtrack of the independent film, "In the Wake" by Erica Jordan. After cruising the festival circuit, percussionist Randy Odell and vocalist Karen Mitchell enlisted the piano skills of David von Holder. His rich synth textures and poignant melodic sensibilities provided the perfect complement to Randy Odell's timely grooves, both coming from a strong jazz and R&B background. Bassist David Hermocillo drives it to the ground and saxophonist Nadine Whitfield adds subtle soul to the evocative lyrics and haunting vocals of classically-trained Karen Mitchell for an extraordinary sound, drawing upon influences that include hip-hop, electronica, slow-core and jazz. The band aroused San Francisco, North East Bay clubs, stirred it up at the infamous Nadine's Wild Weekend and lit it up on local college and internet radio stations. With the birth of their freshman CD, coproduced with Garth May (of Fuzz Productions, producer of recently signed San Francisco artist Essence), Diggsville is satiating music junkies everywhere with substantially captivating grooves.
