Heavy hip hop club grooves with retro and techno keyboards and new wave vocals. 12 MP3 Songs
ELECTRONIC: Pop Crossover, POP: New Wave Details: DONTWALK is a synth pop dance band forging a new genre of its own. Their debut album, TALK TO THE HAND is built on heavy hip-hop beats featuring techno keyboards and new wave vocals. Initially, metro command records is promoting this electro-pop live trio in the San Francisco Bay Area. DONTWALK is bringing new direction to the Bay Area music scene. Members are: Dan Marshall, founder of metro command records is a singer/songwriter who emphasizes epic melodies over heavy club grooves. Dan is the former frontman of 9th Wave. TALK TO THE HAND is his second CD. He released nomad, a solo CD in 2001 on the metro label. His vocals are a new wave style and he plays guitar live to add texture to the keyboard driven sound. djVU is making her debut on the TALK TO THE HAND album and in the DONTWALK live line up. She brings the voice of sweetness and her singing blends with Dans like no other female vocalist ever has. She also sings lead vocals and plays bass guitar. djVU is a purely digital DJ. Live, she spins two Denon DNS 3500 digital turntables. Ron Langford (KeyDragon) is a multi-instrumental songwriter/performer. His musical styles range from classical piano to intense keyboards to key-driven metal. He was the original founder of 9th Wave, an all-original, innovative SF Bay Area new wave band. In DONTWALK the big man in the band plays bass rhythm keyboards. KeyDragon has released 4 other CDs.
