Coming straight from the dangerous streets of New Orleans, 7th Ward, St. Bernard Projects, Militant comes with a style all of his own. He brings a conscious message about life in New Orleans pre and post Hurricane Katrina. Militant embodies that no-nonsense Public Enemy flavor with his highly controversial lyrics, with his Louisiana twang and hardcore delivery, Militant makes thugs relate and ladies heart palpitate. Randy Militant AKA Big Gunz Watson, began rapping and writing rhymes in 2000 and with his entrepreneurial spirit he decided to start his own record label Anything Goes Records later that year. Since then, Militant has released two underground albums Trouble Times and Sinful Days. He also took his talent a bit further and began producing for local artists such as, Big Toe, Shonda, C-Boy, 2 Face, George Hill and Lil Psycho. With his mainstream debut album Catastrophic, Militant tackles very taboo subjects. Mainly he focuses on the mistreatment of the Hurricane Katrina victims by the US government. With songs like Rep (504), Walk With It, and Expose he brings the hurt and pain to the forefront of those who suffered and are still suffering after the storm. Although, the album has a political tone, it also has a lighter side with club hits Holla atcha Boy, and Put That Thing Down. Militant is a hopeless romantic and shows his love and sensuality for the ladies with Ride It. Militant has showcased his talent in and around the New Orleans and Metro Atlanta area. His goal is to bring about social awareness by using his musical gifts to reach the masses.
