The train now arriving on Platform One is to Infinity. Stopping at The Clockmenders Cottage, Medieval England, King Arthurs Kingdom, the Otherworld, the Church of St Mary and Relativity Square. 8 MP3 Songs NEW AGE: Celtic New Age, CLASSICAL: Contemporary Details: Serundals fans can be sure of one thing only when they wait for the next album to be released. That it will not be anything like any one that has gone before. This is because Serundal believes that the world of music is infinite and that it is essential that they work very hard in their quest to try and make sure that every album is a new and exciting experience for the listener. It is of course true that Serundal has a unique musical signature that everyone can recognise but the combination of styles, contemporary and traditional and sounds, Celtic ethnic and modern are always reborn into a completely new package. In Waiting Rooms both the music and themes are a contrast of dark and light incorporating harpsichord, harp and other strings. The music moves easily through the centuries because of the common factor that binds them all- human emotion and imagination transported in some way through the moving vocals that leave echoes in the listeners mind long after the song has finished. This album is about time and its relationship with love, sorrow and our never-ending search for the ultimate truth.
