Details: Description: U.V. Protection, an all female art rock group, is releasing their second full length album February 03, 2007. This twelve song CD is accompanied by a 12 video DVD, which includes material from the bands last three years of performance. U.V. Protections debut release, "Consumer Material" on Honeypump Records in 2005, introduced their unusual choral snyth pop sound. The Clean Modern Comfortable DVD uniquely features over ten outside artists work. This collaborative collection of video work was designed to characterize the band's philosophy and submit various interpretations of U.V. Protections art and music. A variety of video styles including: life action, stop animation, and performance footage were utilized to create thought-provoking visual commentary of the songs and performances of U.V. Protection. "On songs like D:Fend3 from U.V. Protection's forthcoming record 'Clean Modern Comfortable' the female four-piece touches down in an alternative universe where the bizarro shtick of Devo and the slick indifference of Ladytron collaborate on a mixed-media installation. Live, they blend performance art, futuristic synthrock, robotic hip-hop, operatic spazzing and biting social commentary into an eclectic, avant-gardist musical scrapbook of tomorrow's recent history." Luke O'Neil - The Boston Metro - August 31. 2006 Both their former 9 song CD and this current release were Produced by Darron Burke at Makeshift Studio - makeshiftstudio.com. This current release was mastered at Modulus Studios in Boston - modulusdvd- where the DVD was also authored and titled.
