Thomascows version "Mr. Tambourine Man" is a song written and performed by Bob Dylan and featured on his 1965 album Bringing It All Back Home, produced by Tom Wilson. The Byrds also recorded a version that was their first single and title track of their first album, and reached #1 on the Billboard Hot 100 chart. Since Dylan had written the song in 1964, the Byrds had access to it before it was released on Bringing It All Back Home. Hence the Byrds' recording was released just two weeks after Dylan's own version. The song has also been covered by many other artists, including Judy Collins and William Shatner. The song's popularity has led to Dylan recording it live many times, and it has been included in multiple Dylan and Byrds compilation albums. It has been translated into several languages, and it also has been used in television shows and films, and has been referenced in several books.
