Some might describe Lyndzie Taylor as the "whole package," but what is for sure is that this singer/songwriter is a fiery new voice on LA's music scene. Writing songs since childhood and picking up guitar at age 14, Lyndzie gained valuable experience beyond her years. After establishing herself as one of the youngest talents in Denver with two independent releases and a steady stream of performances, Lyndzie moved to LA to refine her vocal talent and passion for drama at the American Music and Dramatic Academy in Hollywood. Now, this do-it-yourself girl is ready to rock out with her new EP, All The Stars in the Sky. The new disc draws inspiration from Lyndzie's experiences living, working, growing up and trying to make it in the city of angels. From the catchy chorus in "Day After Day" to the heart-wrenching honesty in "Los Angeles", there is something on this record for everyone. Inspired by the Beatles, The Counting Crows, Jason Mraz, Hanson, and more, Lyndzie would describe her sound as high energy, soulful acoustic/electric pop rock. Her voice is a powerhouse of emotion and intensity; whether backed by a full band or just her acoustic guitar, Lyndzie rocks every venue she plays with the utmost passion. Currently, the singer is having a blast performing in the Los Angeles area and celebrating the release of All The Stars In the Sky. She looks forward to her CD Release party on September 17 at the Cat Club on the Sunset Strip. To find out when Lyndzie is performing next, visit lyndzietaylor.com.
