As a child living in Mississippi, he watched his dad and uncles sing and perform with many gospel artists. At an early age, Terrell began singing in his father's church and was quickly noted for his talent. The family soon moved to Crowley, Louisiana where they reside today. His continuing excellence as a performer has opened many doors to success, so be on the look out for this rising star. Terrell's style of music is southern soul. By definition it is old school R&B mixed with a little hip hop. He has a smooth vocal delivery reminiscent of Luther Vandross and Freddie Jackson. He's earned the nickname of the "Neighborhood Teddybear" from his gentle demeanor and overwhelming charm on stage and off.
