J-Bo, the MC/bass musician is known for his thoughtfully introspective lyrics as much as his energetic charisma on stage. JJEQ (Jake Jake Earth Quake) producer/keyboardist/percussionist/engineer has a reputation for his varied and innovative style which is personified in each of his instrumentals. Together they naturally feed off one another's creativity to form a unique and powerful sound. In 1994, J-Bo and JJEQ met in school and quickly bonded through common musical interests and influences. Both brought up with Blues and Hip-Hop backgrounds, it wasn't hard for them to see eye-to-eye creatively. Now, 10 years later, they have released two EPs and one full-length album. Their performance experience varies from rocking a show with the Licks and E-40 at Kelly's Mission Rock to the Helsinki Club in Finland, down to the House of Blues in Las Vegas. They have appeared multiple times on college radio shows both locally and out of state. The Nightcrawlers and their crew, the International Loose Cannons are looking to expand their presence and fan base in Hip-Hop through their performances and constant marketing campaigns. Their dedication to making quality music and their strong work ethic ensures the Nightcrawlers future for years to come.
