He has always been in love with sounds, music and rhythm. From the age of 6 he started to create mixes with his dad's old two-track tape recorder. He loved doing many voices and blending them into music, backgrounds or soundtracks. At the age of 14 he sang in a garage band called WIDGI. At the age of 15, his Uncle Jacques bought him his first guitar. At that time he continued to spend time with machines, recorders and computers. His mixes and songs were evolving just as was technology. At the age of 16 he starred in the lead role as Jean Valjean in a semi-professional production of the musical, Les Miserables, at his School, le Sminaire St-Joseph. This experience gave him the assurance needed to continue singing and to create new material. He enjoyed composing not only songs but comical scenarios to accompany many of them. In College, Daniel sang in a quartet named, Le Quatuor les Quatre Saisons with three other guys (Jimmy Diamond, Sbastien Thibault, and Gyslain Parent). The group won the CEGEP en spectacle's first prize at their college. At the age of 18 he produced, recorded and played in another band known as, Whatever. It was a dream come true for him, to be able to compose and sing with a band and then record an album. This demo-album was produced by Daniel, and interpreted by young musicians: Nancy Blanchette (back up singer), tienne Lafond (lead and rhythm guitarist), Frdric Mailloux (bass) and ric Dupont and Luc Dubord (drums and percussion). It was recorded in Daniel's basement with the assistance of Pierre Jacob. Daniel continued to compose songs, play the guitar and sing. He wrote songs for family, friends, organisations such as CISV Canada and produced a second album for an international summer camp in Brasilia. The limited album includes songs that deal with the themes of world peace, justice, Life, social matters, love, evolution, relationships and friendship. These themes and others have been a source of inspiration for Daniel. Having completed an MA in education and now into teaching, he then composed a series of songs that deal with values. His purpose here is to educate and motivate youth and give them the passion so necessary to solve problems and help others. As an ESL (English as a second language) teacher, Daniel now continues to compose songs inspired by his students, family and friends. He is presently working on a new album with tienne Lafond, Philippe Roy, Andr Legeault and Cline Bellemare. Daniel really likes to create these social songs, dress them up humorously by blending his different v voices into them. It's as if each additional character adds his own color and feelings to boost the song's main positive, and musical message. The style of music is a blend of Jazz, rock, rap and has a positive vibe that keeps you moving. The lyrics are visual, creative and make us think about our actions. Daniel hopes they give you the energy to work for progress while making you happy. Recently Daniel has participated in the Compilation mergences (Ixthus - Qubec). He has 2 songs on this new CD: Little Boy and Place au Bio. In 2006 he has performed in Qubec city, Trois-Rivires and Nicolet. The new album B Tunes has 12 songs that vary in style. It's a perfect CD for the summer!
