Considering himself a Florida native however, Benjamin spent his elementary years in Ft. Myers, Florida. At the young age of 10, he was coerced into piano lessons; looking back, it was one of the best decisions his parents could have made. It was in these early years that Benjamin Warren's gift for music was first recognized. Benjamin was under the instruction of Ms. Karen Prasser, presently Executive Director of the Solon Center for the Arts. Ms. Prasser explains, Ben has music inside just waiting to get out, some people are born with the ability to create, improvise, retain, and perform music; Ben is one of those truly gifted musicians. Benjamin spent his teen years in the small family oriented town of Melbourne, Florida. He played all percussive instruments in the symphonic orchestra and in high school found his second instrument of passion, the drums. You can hear these years of percussive influence in Benjamin's compositions today; through the unique rhythmic texture and flow that each composition brings to life. While living in Melbourne, Benjamin met the person who has most impacted his writing style and source of inspiration. Benjamin spent nearly two years under the direction of Mrs. Regina Bison. Benjamin recalls, She gave me the freedom to express what was inside, she would never allow a discipline to interfere with inspiration. It would be several years later that Mrs. Regina would lose a short battle with Cancer; Benjamin honors her life and giftedness with the song Ms. Regina. For college, Benjamin Warren chose the University of Central Florida. In 2005 he graduated with a BSBA in Management and Entrepreneurship. He credits the business acumen gained from building two successful companies while in college as the main reason for choosing business over music as a major. Benjamin

Warrens gift for music is phenomenal in that he composes, arranges, and produces every note of every instrument in every song you hear. He has incorporated the gift of being a music creationist with the technical side of producing quality sounds on the latest equipment used in the music industry today. At only 24, Benjamin will continue growing his musical footprint; leaving his mark on the music of our world for years to come.
