Cherri was a part of the Title One Mass Choir that traveled across the country; she was know as the short girl with a big voice! After entering high school she discovered two new talents which were Rapping and Dancing. She also became a majorette with her school band. Cherri loved music so much she was once quoted saying if music was a man she would marry him." Today Cherri is persuing her dream. She's in the studio writing with producer Simeo from the legendary R/B group Cameo. She definitely has what it takes to make her mark in todays music business. While out at a Detroit night club Cherri talked a well know DJ into playing one of her songs. Even though people had never heard the song the dance floor stayed packed and the DJ began playing the song again before the night was over. No doubt about it, Cherri's one of the new talents to be reckoned with. Look for her new CD coming this summer
