Details: End Transmission was started in late 2006, after many attempts from Jordan to get Zeke to focus and write songs. Well, Zeke eventually wrote those songs. Jordan helped. They recorded some stuff in Jordan's bedroom. They thought it was pretty good. It wasn't. They continued to write and record demo after acoustic demo, and eventually decided that in order to rock greater numbers of people, electric guitars and a drummer would be necessary. That's where Hunter came in. With his amazing Drummabilities, Hunter "R0llz R0yc3" Cook added an important element to End Transmission...drums! Realizing that it would also benefit them greatly to add a bassist to the line up, they recruited Israely celebrity Jake Eaton. This quickly led to playing awesome shows that rocked people's faces completely off. In April 2008, they entered Castaway 7 Studios and recorded their debut E.P., titled "Head Over Heels". It was released on Missing Words Records. It will soon be in your hands/ipods/car stereos/brains forever, provided you do them and yourself a major favor and purchase it. End Transmission now strives to not only completely take over the planet earth, but eventually destroy it...but not in a bad way...like in a good way though...maybe with legos...or robots...but the robots are good robots...and we make them fight and stuff...they are still workin on it. Send them a message if you want to get together on a show, or you like the tunes, or you hate the tunes, or you went to school with Zeke in NC, or Jordan was an asshole to you at Isbell, or you want a ride on Hunters wheelchair, or you have no idea who any of these people are. They accept all of those. thanks.
