EASY LISTENING: Mood Music, CLASSICAL: Contemporary Details: TJ Cole is a 12 year old composer who aspires to one day score music for film. Her piano compositions range from classical to soft pop. Each composition has a theme and presences that instills the mind and wows the spirit. Gwinnett Daily Post (Georgia) gwinnettdailypost Jan 29th, 2006 Life Leisure Section Shelley Mann wrote, " T.J., just 12, is already composing music wise beyond her years". T.J. Cole recorded her CD, Solace, as a way to raise money toward tuition at a prestigious music camp. But the process has taught her much about the logistics behind producing music. Her goal? I want to compose music for film, she said. The sixth-grader is a huge fan of John Williams, the composer behind films including Star Wars and Jaws. She loves movies with complex scores, such as the Harry Potter series, Red Violin, Chocolat, and Finding Neverland. T.J. learned to play the piano at age 4, and by 8, she was already writing some of her own songs. Of the 10 songs on her first CD, T.J. wrote eight. The other two are a Chopin waltz and Andrew Lloyd Webers Learn to be Lonely, from Phantom of the Opera. TJ resides in the Atlanta, Georgia area where she also is first chair cello in her school orchestra. She contributes to the community by playing at the annual Rotary Club Christmas party for under-privledged children. She also donates part of her proceeds from her album sales to charities that promote the well being of children around the world.
