Details: An explosion of sick beats, riffs, and synth - this band takes pop and shoves it in your face. Apocalypstic is an amalgam of styles, opinions, and personalities spanning the whole spectrum of possibility. It works and Drea Laurie definitely work it. From the synth-pop-rock ballad Spun to the rock-reggae I Said No You Said Yes this band will have you rocking out start to finish. A love for playing live music brought the members together in 2006. A twist of fate had them join musical forces in 2007. A drive to make music had the band write a record in 2008. A small surplus of cash saw them through the making of this record in 2009. Thats the official time line anyway; there were on-screen appearances in indie flicks, wicked fun gigs and personal turmoil in between, but nothing note worthy here. They write and make music for themselves. Its simple: if they wouldnt listen to it, they wont play it. Copyright Apocalypstic 2009.
