Accompanied by acoustic guitars, mandolin, violin and upright bass, a voice of pure feminine charm leaves red, red lipstick on your collar. Circe's siren song beckons - an irresistible recipe served up with a shot of Patti Page, a dash of Sara Vaughn, a side of Patsy Cline, and pinch of Alison Krauss , Nora Jones and Fiona Apple. In the spring of 2001, Circe Link never having written music before, awoke one morning with a funny little song in her head. Later that day another song came to her in traffic on the way home from her day job. While making dinner that evening a third song appeared, refusing - like the others - to be ignored. As it turns out listening to the voices in her head turned out to be a good thing, for music is her true calling. Working with a myriad of talented musicians, Circe has been able to craft her memorable melodies and lyrics into a unique blend of Jazz, Country, and Blues. Her music is palpable and genuine. To hear it is to feel as though you're in a Tennessee Williams play. Her songs drip and swoon like a steamy summer night engulfing two lovers on the back porch. These Infectious the melodies waft through the air and settle like a familiar perfume in the dreams of all who hear them.
