Details: Does children's music have to be so annoying? After the birth of my daughter Frankie and after been driven to distraction by the poor quality and frankly hideous nursely rhyme CDs that flooded the market I decided to record my own. Having been in a rock band and toured most of the world, as well as recording two albums and numerous singles, I wanted to make children's music that had an edge to it. Not so much rocky but melodic and catchy that wouldn't drive parents crazy after the first listen and also a bit different to what is on the market at the moment. Having recorded my first album and after an amazing response from parents and children alike "family music" is on the rise especially in America and Canada and is now starting to ripple the shores of the UK.
