Singer/songwriter Sophie Bancroft's intimate work of seductive vocals and engaging music combines sophisticated ambient pop with strong currents of smooth jazz. 11 MP3 Songs JAZZ: Jazz Vocals, POP: Folkly Pop Details: Reviews of 'Modern Love': "In an area somewhere between Rickie Lee Jones and the ambient sounds of Zero 7, the nicely varied electro-acoustic settings capture the mood of hazy langour." (The Herald) "In the best possible way her diverse taste shows, sewn together by the wayward arresting trajectories of her elastic creamy voice. Echoes range from Peggy Lee to Joan Armatrading, Alison Krauss to Bjork, in a boldly achieved balance of the classic and the contemporary." (Sunday Herald) "Sophie Bancroft's voice will send shivers of sensuality up your spine" (Massive magazine) "Gorgeous, original acoustic music" (The List) SOPHIE BANCROFT * Singer-songwriter from Scotland whose music has been used on major HBO TV series 'Six Feet Under' and VH1's 'Bands On The Run'. * Music has been extensively broadcast on BBC Radio 1, Radio 2, Radio Scotland and numerous American and European radio stations. * Performance career spanning major jazz, folk and contemporary music festivals around Britain, Europe and the USA. Brought up in one of Scotland's renowned jazz families, Sophie started singing professionally at the age of 17. She has been bandleader, co-bandleader and vocalist in a series of refreshing and innovative ensembles which have involved collaborations with musicians from the pop, jazz, folk and electronic scenes in Scotland. In 1999 Sophie was invited to collaborate with west coast electronic band Spylab, signed to Guidance Records in Chicago, to co-write and sing on the highly acclaimed CD 'This Utopia'. Their collaborations have subsequently been used on major TV series such as HBO's 'Six Feet Under' and VH1's 'Bands On The Run' and reached top 10 slots in many dance charts, with major remixes by artists such as G-Pal and 16b. Having signed a publishing contract with Bug Music in Los Angeles, she is now focusing on the acoustic side of her music and 2003 produced a new CD 'Modern Love' with a line-up that includes some of Scotland's top musicians and produced by saxophonist and composer Phil Bancroft.
