Founded by producer Bryon "Big Chuck" Epps and his partner James R. Franklin in 1998, the company has since become home to some of the most talented rappers and singers that the streets of South Los Angeles has to offer. Producer Bryon (Big Chuck) brings together three of the company's most versatile artists, B. dOt, Phlex Skillz, and O.M.A. They are collectively known as Tha Sho-Shot Allstars. The company also features the work of unsigned talent from Longbeach, Watts, and Apple Valley California. Tha Sho-Shot Allstars have managed to put together a sound that has a broad commercial appeal, while at the same time maintaining a very street essence. Their work has been featured in a number of motion picture and television shows. Their work can be heard in the current Mirimax film "Garden State" and the Touchstone Film "Raising Helen", as well as in reruns of Fox networks new hit series The Quintuplets. Other episodes include "The Bernie Mac Show" and the crime drama "The Sheild". Keep your ears open because you won't want to miss what the Allstars are gonna do next.
