He also developed a taste for classical and new age music in his teenage years, but it wasn't until his later high school years that he discovered his talent for the piano. As he began to teach himself to play in college, he continued to excel at sports and won scholarships and acclaim for his athletic talent. After college, he moved to Maryland to take a job in computers, which allowed him to travel the country, playing every piano he could find, and writing new music whenever he could. It was in Maryland that he met his future wife, Monica, who was then attending the University of Maryland. He began to play the piano at her church, in her house, and eventually, he even played the prelude at their wedding. Tim currently lives with his wife in Columbia, Maryland. About Tim's Music Tim's music is a blend of new age, classical and inspirational styles. He has been influenced by artists such as David Lanz, John Tesh, Yanni, Kostia, and Antonin Dvorak His inspiration comes from his feelings and thoughts about the world and people around him. He also enjoys playing Christmas music during the holidays, and is working on a CD of Christmas music, to be released this year. In the interim, he enjoys playing at churches and he has even been known to wow a crowd in grocery stores and hotels, or anywhere there is a piano!
