These young artist have there own sound and flow, that would seperate them from any group of MC's. They both have years of experience under their belt, and plenty of life situation to fuel their lyrical attack. Ronell and Fame have had the pleasure to work with some of the industry elite. Representing Street Power Production, a company know for banging out bass heavy R&B and Hip Hop tracks, with a street edge. When it come to limits, these two guys wouldn't even know the word they have the power to take you from a club scene to thug love. The hunger that the two men have without a doubt is serious, and is on display in every song recorded. The Structure (Inside Street Power Studio) Ronell grabs a notebook, rips out a piece of paper as searches for pen. At this very moment Fame is pushing buttons through out the music equipment to prepare a track hot enough for the Mc's to begin writing on. With fame being the mastermind behind Street Power Beats, he make their selection, the vibe that the two men have is time perfect. Ronell feels track, and his pen hits his paper, releaseing a smile that indicates this is the one. Fame begins a mental freestyle that will soon become the bars of a hot new song.
