The June 2005 release "Chords Chaos" packs a pop punch with an edgy side of rock mixed in for good measure. With lead guitar and arrangements by local favorite Brian Kaplan of the Brian Kaplan Band, and some serious bass lines from long time pro Steven Clyde of the Rumdummies, this CD leaves you wanting more. Kevin Webb, Valerie's Dad, rounds out the recordings with precision percussion for a total package of listening pleasure. Valerie's insightful lyrics transcend age boundaries that typically box the teen queens in. The radio friendly tunes, produced by Chris Fisher (former bandleader of Conehead Buddha) for Easter Island Productions, are causing a buzz and earning the young performer kudos from her local musical adult peers. Greg Haymes NY Times Union Entertainment Editor Thursday, June 16, 2005 Preview Insert "Valerie Webb, who goes by the mono-moniker of Valerie, has been writing and performing her original music for almost two years now, and she's celebrating the release of her debut CD, "Chords Chaos," with a performance at 7 tonight at Professor Java's Coffee Sanctuary in Colonie. It's a smart, sharp collection of seven pop'n'rock tunes that display considerable range and talent. Produced by former Conehead Buddha bandleader Chris Fisher, the disc also features guitarist Brian Kaplan (of The Brian Kaplan Band), bassist Steven Clyde (of Rumdummies) and Kevin Webb (of Brothers of Intention). Oh yeah, did I mention that Valerie is only 12 years old? Verrrry impressive."
