Details: Agent Error is Richard Gaisbauers music project from 1999. Born in 1962, a former mathematician, he is now living near Salzburg called Baumbach, an inspiring place for his musical creativity. Since 1984, electronic music has been a major part in his life; initially with friends like Christian Dobler, Andy Pfeiffer and in cooperation with Franz Reisecker (Lichtenberg). Many influences like the early Tangerine Dream but also modern Drum&Bass Tunes shape his works. Many vintage electronic instruments guide the career of Richard: Mellotron, early PPG's 1002, 360 and many others. The result and feedback from insiders: With great success, Richard is trying out something new again with Agent Error. The diversity of the six tracks on his new CD is just perfect: Classical electronic, ambient-sounds, drum bass rhythms, radio-sound samples and excellent melodies are perfectly mixed and peppered with a great portion of coolness. To cut a long story short: Radioworld is one of the best CDs of the year. This would be the sound if Tangerine Dream was still making good innovative music. Radio Waves, Sylvia Sommerfeld One of last year's great surprises in the world of electronic music was Agent Error with the rastafarian album Radioworld. Richard is not anxious about uniting and mixing Jazz, Ethno, traditional EM, Dark Ambient and D&B-Grooves. With his sound he puts himself on the same level as famous electronic musicians like Spyrax or Kruder Dorfmeister. The result is a great mixture of cunning funny laid-back and dance-oriented instrumental music with mystical industrial sound and great effects. Highly recommendable! MEMI, Wilhelm Lcken
