He started singing at the age of 9 and has in the last 20 years a varied experience in leading choirs, conducting gospel music workshops and as guest soloist in different churches, conferences and concerts in the Netherlands, England, France, Nigeria, Ireland, Canada and the USA. The various musical influences he has had, plus his warm baritone with heartfelt singing have touched hearts and make him a joy to listen to, and much in demand. Other Albums Let There Be Praise, So good to know Press reviews Press: (translated from dutch) ... The high point was the gospel song Heaven is my home. This was sung with full surrender with a real black gospel singer (Martin) .. --"Witte weekblad Alphen aan den Rijn "Easy Listening Gospel with a huge string section and majestic choir/army of singers. These songs sound more like Lawrence Welk than Mahalia Jackson, but Adu delivers them with a moving devotion and a rich, powerful voice.--ListenMusic: Martin Adu - Biography Two of his own songs rub shoulders with a few well known pieces such as Archie Jordan's 'What a difference you made in my life' and Morris Chapman's "Longtime Friends" -Cross Rhythms Magazine, February 2002 The one word that sprang to mind on first hearing "I Have His Promise" is joy. This is truly an exuberant, joyous song that works on a number of levels. The vocals are smooth and add weight to the inspirational lyrics. The band provides a perfectly blended backing. Very well recorded, with excellent clarity even on the low-res streaming version. No real downers to report here, just a pro-quality track that not incidentally is also a work of faith and spirituality. Do yourself a favor and listen to it! - mp3.com.au
