This CD brings you into a spiritual adventure through traditional flute, tribal percussion, and the elements of Nature. 11 MP3 Songs WORLD: Native American, NEW AGE: Meditation Details: Ike Moses, aka. Thunderhawk, a name given by a Shaman at age 19, is a decedent of the Creek and Choctaw Tribes. Raised in a traditional Native American family, he traveled the pow-wow circuit with his family teaching others about their culture. In his early teens, Ike was exposed to many woodwind instruments, eventually finding his talent in the Native American Flute. Using the flute as an instrument of healing, Thunderhawk performed at a wedding reception in front of over 200 people. This first non-traditional performance led Ike, through a series of friends of friends contacts, to the rough storage unit based home of Glass Ceiling Music (Since closed and re-opened in a new location). At Ikes request, the now President of Glass Ceiling Music personally produced and engineered a project that was simply designed as a gift to Ikes mother. Upon completion of the CD, Travis convinced Ike to look into a career as a performing artist with a re-recorded commercial quality CD available for sale to the public. The release of Thunderhawk: First Flight took place at BORDERS on South Hill, in the city of Puyallup, Washington on January 6th, 2007. Attendance was great considering the size of the venue, and CD sales were strong. As a result of Ikes continued efforts, Thunderhawk: First Flight is now a stock item at this Borders store. With hopes of this CD being carried nationally through Borders, Ike has aggressively pursued performances at stores in Tacoma, Federal Way, and Salem, Oregon. But these are only a start for this artist, as additional store performances are being added to the list. Performances are not limited to just Borders. Bookings for weddings, personal and cultural events, fairs and festivals are available as well. Contact Ike Moses at thunderhawkmusicfor more details for details on purchasing his CD and/or booking a performance in your area. Ike Moses (aka. Thunderhawk) is truly a local artist with more than money and stardom on his mind.

With another commercial release soon to be in the works, he continues to offer his healing energy to others through his music on a daily basis.
