EBM Industrial Rock. A tight mixture of old and new school synthpop and Industrial Rock. Male and Female vocals, electronic drums and keys, live guitar and bass. 12 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Industrial, ROCK: Goth Details: Unavox emerged in late 2004 as a four-member ensemble dedicated to the composition and live performance of electronic and industrial music. Based on the concepts and musical frameworks keyboardist Reid Rainwater had previously developed as a one-man-band years later, the other members of Unavox and Reid were able to create new music that qually represented them all. Unavox's debut EP, 'Angels Dance Upwards,' was recorded in the band's home studio by the members themselves. The EP was released in July 2005, and was well-received by several magazines and is still getting airplay on numerous stations. Along with many additional accolades, the 'Angels Dance Upwards [ep]' was included on DJ I.Z.'s "Best Albums of 2005" list and was also listed on Radio Ardilla's "Best Of 2005." More recently, Unavox completed and released their much-anticipated, full-length version of 'Angels Dance Upward,' in August of 2006. Unavox's goal is to compose electronic music that can be performed live. Live Unavox is Reid Rainwater on lead keys, Micheal Murray with dark vocals, Meggan Cooper on bass, sultry backing vocals, and backing keys and Steve Fogle with aggressive guitar and backing vocals. In the studio, each member has a role in writing, arranging and recording/ engineering of the music and lyrics. With the completion of the full-length album, Unavox is already composing and recording songs for the next album. As well as, booking shows around the southeast and promoting the release of both albums. Unavox will continue to strive to put on the dynamic live shows and produce the innovative industrial rock music that brought them together to begin with.
