California singer/songwriter with influences from indie rock to alt.country to powerpop. 13 MP3 Songs

ROCK: Americana, ROCK: Emo Details: Born a fortunate son of Orange County California, singer/songwriter Jeff Caudill began his musical endeavors straight out of high school as singer/guitarist for influential emo-pop-punk quartet Gameface. In their thirteen year career they released five albums and a handful of singles and blanketed the U.S and Europe, earning a dedicated following. "Leave it to lead guitarist/vocalist Jeff Caudill to come up with another strong batch of songs... his uncommonly emotive vocal presence gives Gameface an approach unparalleled in its field." - The Big Takeover His loyal fanbase identifies most with, "Jeff's sincere vocals and lyrics with the perfect blend of indie pop, melodic rock and subtle country twang..." - Impact Press "Caudill comes through with winning, heart-on-sleeve urgency and sincerity that can call to mind Bob Mould, Live or Pearl Jam." - Los Angeles Times Two years after the demise of the band, 2005 finds Jeff Caudill settling into his groove as a songwriter and leaves no stone unturned on his first proper solo album "HERE'S WHAT YOU SHOULD DO", which reflects his influences from alt. country to indie rock to power pop.
