Tangerine Dream, Beethoven, Chopin, Mozart, Kitaro, Vangelis and Yanni inspires him. Although David cannot sight read music, he pursued his dream; to record and publish his own music. Here's a bit of history. In 1989, David produced Amiga music mods, which were released worldwide. The first mod, "Darkness and Light" earned international acclaim which used a goth metal sound. This sound used pipe organ, distorted guitars and harsh vocals set to a soothing orchestral choral mood. Darkness and Light earned David's reputation for sounding dark yet, he had other styles. In 1991, David created another mod, "Metal Jazz", merging Jazz elements with a distorted guitars. Later, he created the smooth romantic piano sound in "Shelley" (on the CD), "Dreams" and the fast paced action thriller movie theme, "Pulsar 2000". These pieces soon found thier way worldwide, thanks to something called portals, which were gateways to the Internet. In 1992, David produced "Celestial Sunlight Journey into the Afterlife", on cassette, hoping a record label would sign him up. He sent music to all parties interested, unfortunately, no deal was made. In 1993, David met screenwriter, Randy Hall and read a few scripts. One script inspired the relaxing children's theme, "Seahorse Cove" (also on this CD). For two more years David submitted his music to many record labels and none offered a deal. As result of this setback, he became his own label, David Turner Music. In 1995, David used his studio and recorded this "Piano String and Other Things", using a Commodore Amiga. He composed a lighter more relaxing style mood for his mother. The following year, she passed away. This CD is in memory of his her hence, the first track is called "To Mother" and dedicated to mothers all around the world. David states, "If it wasn't for my mother and father, who supported me along the way, I would not be where I am today. Thank you Mom and Dad!" Today, David is a respected film composer. His first credit is "Music Composer" for the movie "The Neighborhood". Stay tuned for more updates.
