(search Eddy J Lemberger on youtube) Through the 1990s Green Bay Packers Super Bowl years Eddy J was the entertainer for Packer Fan Tours, the official tour company of the Green Bay Packers. And now by popular demand the Brew Crew Boogaloo! Countless people have asked me when I was going to write a Milwaukee Brewers song since our Brewers are picking up steam and on the way to bringing a pennant to Wisconsin. My answer, I've already written a song but wanted to wait to release it. In fact, I had the idea to write the Brew Crew Boogaloo! a short time after writing the Brett Favre Boogie! and the Oprah Polka! and it finally popped out of my brain on July 27th, 2007. The Brew Crew Boogaloo! has a tailgating dance Just like the Brett Favre Boogie! Listen to the song and learn the dance. Lets sing and dance all the way to a Milwaukee Brewers World Series Championship. My first experience with professional sports was attending Major League Baseball games at the old County Stadium in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. My father used to take me to twi-night double-headers. Remember those? My first game(s) a twi-nighter the Milwaukee Braves vs. the Pittsburgh Pirates. I remember well Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews (for our Milwaukee Braves at that time) and Roberto Clemente in right field (for the Pirates)! Oh the good old days. But the good days are here now too! And were all feelin it! Also included on the Brew Crew Boogaloo! CD is I Love My Brewers And You!, originally released by me in 1998 and spiffed up and made more universal for today, and a jazzy rendition of Take Me Out To The Ball Game Brewers! as well as three childrens learning songs Happy Birthday, Its Your Birthday, Fifty States Song Fifty State Capitols Song. Have fun, good luck to you and thanks for visiting. Now lets get down to the business of being Champions! Eddy J Lemberger People who are interested in Garth Brooks Neil Diamond Tony Bennett should consider this download.
