Instrumental Japanese-inspired music based on the kimono landscapes of Itchiku Kubota 10 MP3 Songs in this album (50:56) ! Related styles: WORLD: Japanese contemporary, NEW AGE: Ethnic Fusion People who are interested in Enya Peter Gabriel should consider this download. Details: KIMONO is Jason's fourth album release and is a sonic departure from his last instrumental piano CD, "Serene", as it pushes the boundaries of his cinematic style to a new level. When Jason first saw Itchiku Kubota's "Symphony of Light" kimono exhibit in San Diego on January 4, 2009, he was immediately inspired. The exhibit featured 30 giant, brightly colored kimonos, each one a scenic depiction of the changing seasons. Jason has selected ten kimonos from the "Symphony of Light" for which this music was written. Each composition depicts one of these specific kimonos, providing a musical landscape for the seasonal journey from fall to winter. He has maintained the same titles for these compositions as Kubota's kimonos themselves, translated into English. "Jason really is a talented pianist! Very versatile, from prog rock to solo almost classical piano." -Rosalie Howarth, KFOG On-Air Music Personality and Host of the "Putumayo World Music Hour"
