Details: June Taylor as narrator, tells the story of Honker - The Mixed-Up Mother Goose . Honker was hatched on a ranch with the chickens and she thinks she is their mother. The chickens think so too. But chickens can't fly. Everyone on the ranch felt sorry for Honker and thought she needed a mate. Grand Dandy Gander enters the story and he and Honker get along so well they raised a family of little goslings who could fly . Wild Canadian Geese visited the pond on the ranch every year when they flew south in the winter time and north in the summertime. The chickens couldn't leave with the wild geese because they couldn't fly, but the goslings could fly and they left with the wild geese every year.
