FOLK: Folk Pop, POP: Folk Pop Details: Mandy Meng is a self-taught singer-songwriter who loves to perform and interact with live audiences. Mandy's musical talent is evident in her latest album, "New Kind of Cute", with songs ranging from fresh a cappellas to light, comedic ballads. Mandy has been rocking her acoustic pop sound for the last 10 years. Highlights of her musical career include performing at Java Joe's in San Diego, The Neutral Ground in New Orleans, Lucky Joe's in Fort Collins and on the main stage at the Rocky Mountain Folks Fest in Colorado with Peter Himmelman. She's also performed at several fund-raising events for causes such as Leukemia research, political awareness and stopping violence against women. Mandy's roots in music come from her love of entertaining audiences. As a child she sang to Bette Midler albums for friends and family and performed self-choreographed dance pieces to Michael Jackson tunes. She wrote her first song at age 20 entitled "Take Time" which can be heard on the album, "New Kind Of Cute". Her passion for music has increased over the years as she has honed her talent and musical focus into a powerful brew of folk-rock fusion. Mandy's inspiration comes from her profound respect for her friends, family and her powerful female heroes like, Patty Griffin, Indigo Girls, Oprah, Margaret Cho and the Powerpuff Girls (seriously).
