Gritty and edgy, with haunting melodies and heartfelt lyrics. A touch of romance and wit keeps the dark side from getting too deep. 12 MP3 Songs POP: Beatles-pop, ROCK: Adult Contemporary Details: Welcome to Neal Foxs world. A place full of contrasts, colors and surprises, almost like an amusement park on steroids. If youre a fan of songs that dont go deeper than Oops, I did it again! youve landed on the wrong page. Exit gracefully now. But if you like a puzzle, or something to ponder while downing your third Starbucks or Red Bull, then stick around and have some fun. Like Harry Chapin (who wrote about the Texas tower sniper), Fox writes it like he sees it. But he tempers the darker side of life with humor. To start with, if youre a fan of podcasts, you might know Suffolk n Cool in the UK. Peter Clitheroe got such a kick out of Swank-ay he called it delicious. And you just cant be in a bad mood when you hear She Got Too Big for Her Body. Go ahead, we dare you. If you think this song is politically incorrect, just remember that shes dead, man, and having a damn good time. The Purpose is reminiscent of the Beatles tune, Shes Leaving Home in that both young women are miserably unhappy. No one really sees or understands them. But in The Purpose, a twist of fate leads to a strangely happy ending. As for Sheep, well its not about the animals, and its not complimentary. But if youre reading this, youre probably not one of them so you wont care. A Zero With a Gun recalls the tragic school shootings. Too many lives lost. Too many links to psych drugs. On the lighter side, everybodys got a she-done-me-wrong song. Neals got two: What the Hell Were You Thinking and A Long Way to Go Now. Take youre pick. Global Warming? A New World Order? 9/11 a hoax? What the hell? Somethings Wrong! And speaking of 9/11, when the heroes of today are gone, who will replace them? Is Anybody Home? Life is good. Life is hard. Every now and then you need a fresh start. Pray for Rain. Back to the dark side, or actually the tug-at-your-heartstrings side. Whatever country you live in, if human rights, freedom and justice are things that you cherish, these songs are for you: A Cold Day is Coming, and, Were All Gonna Be There (When She Dies). Well, thats the CD. We hope you enjoy the music. Production notes: All songs were written, recorded and produced by Neal Fox in his personal studio using a Mac G-5, Digital Performer, a bunch of plug-ins, virtual instruments, and synths. Fox plays all instruments, including guitar, and does all the vocals. People who are interested in The Beatles David Bowie Harry Chapin should consider this download.
