_____ .:Reviews:. [Hollow Tipz] Dig the noise loops for the intro, nice pumpin grooves. Catchy synth lines, like the high line panned right to fill out the atmosphere. Excellent vox work with the panning and FX, may be a bit crisper in the mix. Nice use of the breakdown to kick into the next bass synth line, great use of FX. Dig the break at 3:00, wonderful synth swells. Nice break once again to keep the flow fresh, great layout of the piece. Excellent production on this one. Respect. Phil PhillyC Rochester, NY [Teknautik Shrilla] Liked the synchopated breaks in the intro. Starts off with a bang! Rather fond of the re-entry around 2:30 and the vocal samples. I'm usually not fond of that muted sound, but it just felt natural here. Strong and vibrant. Dance floor fun in store. Video with a strobe light or one of the Extreme biking competition settings. Gets your adrenaline screaming. Godiva Motor City [Speed Addiction(Re-Edit)] The title fits G! This track is a tweakers orgasm. I dig the onslaught of sound. I got a bit of a Lords of Acid vibe hear and there... that crazy jungle/club hybrid sound. Nice use of guitars... love that crunch. Those synths are mad crazy. Love that break at :48. It screams "Buckle up Baby!" Nice job on the build following the break in the middle. It just keeps coming at ya till the end. You have skills, fittin all that sound in the track and keepin it smooth... Hella Props G! - oktober dead oktober Milwaukie, OR [The Chemical(Part 1)] Nice break and mix here. Reminds me a little of Crystal Method and Expansion Union too! Keep it up man, your probably killin' em in MD. There's one thing I'd like to hear in this track after the breakdown and that's some phat deep sub bass drops. peace Jason Donnelly (aka puzz) Madison, WI [Hypasting] My bones are vibrating from the bassline...Very cool sound. Very trance-electronica. You sure know what is needed for a great mix! Now you need to get some power diva to be wailing her vocals all over this track. Lthrboots
