And hypnotic describe Horton's latest live album based off of his unique style of compositional improvisation. Recorded in New York City in a small underground sanctuary for the arts, it roars expressionistic freedom and the power of ideas. Joining with him are soulful bassist Zack Pride and life force Jaimeo Brown on drums. The possibilities run endlessly as this dynamic trio unleashes their most fruitful recording to date. 'Obsidian' takes us on a musical journey completely improvised throughout. From haunting dark grooves to complex rhythmic and harmonic changes that speak more than just what great players they are but rather what great thinkers they have become.'
