these two revealed the secret to successful living: knowing whose you are knowing who you are and being who YOU are. present day finds d2o preparing to turn loose their highly anticipated third album called "sOund doctoriN'." with the power to shock the industry and revive what has been pronounced dead it is guaranteed to do more than music has ever done before. in it one thing becomes obvious. d2o is not only doing this for applause, popularity, or money. they truly love what they do. this is an asset that can be heard in their music and is a part of its appeal. their goal is to impact the earth with their message. water has many different purposes and properties. as you research them you find d2o can be compared to and considered just as important.
