Contemporary worship music for fans of Chris Tomlin, Matt Redman, and Tim Hughes. 11 MP3 Songs

GOSPEL: Contemporary Gospel, POP: Today's Top 40 Details: At 8 years old...after a long afternoon of playing "chopsticks" at his Aunt Polly's house, Jeramy was sentenced by his parents to a couple of years of piano lessons, because of his obvious "interest". By the time he had finished, he knew that he was interested in music, but needed to try something WAY cooler than the piano. Drums...yes, drums were the answer... Jeramy went on to play drums all through his teenage years and twenties; recording and playing gigs in the San Francisco bay area with The Plain Janes, Shadrach, Jackson Jackson, Starfish5, and East of Western. He began teaching himself to play guitar and almost immediately began writing songs. Growing up in the church, it was obvious that playing in the worship band was the way he could serve. Jeramy played in the worship band at his home church until he and his wife Sharon were called to First Christian Church in Suisun City, CA. After a few years serving at First Christian Church, Jeramy was hired as the Director of Creative Arts, in 2002. In December of 2006, Jeramy began recording his debut solo album, entitled Its Never Too Late with 3 time dove award winning producer Masaki Liu, at One Way Studios in Benicia California. Its Never Too Late is full of songs that offer hope to those who need it, and resonate with people that love God and desire to make a difference for Him in our world. Jeramy and his lovely wife Sharon live in Suisun City, CA with their three wonderful children.
