The compilation stands out as a diverse expose by many of today's new and established musicians. Fast-paced, danceable, and at times explosive, Psybration is a must-have for DJ's and fans alike. Bringing together artistic talents from Denmark's Tegma, Qlap's adventures in Mexico, Japan's K.U.R.O, Sweden's Etnoscope and Solar Fields, Germany's Analog Pussy, Codex of Israel and Mexico's newcomers Self Flush ...to a highly energetic and eclectic compilation. As a joint venture between Belgium's Psybration organization, AP Records of Germany, and Double-Agents Records of Canada, this compilation's concept is one of spreading the contagious and overwhelming vibe that we have found within today's Psychedelic music. Psybration's DJ Narayan along with AP Records has selected music materials to showcase the many talents and varying interpretations of this vibe in an all-encompassing collection named after the renowned collective; P s y b r a t i o n Beginning with K.U.R.O.'s forceful, high impact, and continuously climactic track Manley, Psybration's energy levels fluctuate and waver between full-on intensity and groovy, stormy stomping tracks of a more progressive nature. Qlap next introduces a hint of melodic overtones, and this vibe is augmented in the next track, Deep Flesh, by Solar Fields. The compilation takes a slower, darker and more thoughtful feel with Tegma's Tabla, closely followed by Codex's technological marvel A State of Flux. This atmosphere is further built upon by Cosmo Chaos, with a melodic journey to alien landscapes, and Etnoscope takes us back in time to a tribal gathering with their percussive and nature exploring track Das Fug. Self Flush brings us a stompy, dark and thought-provoking track in a more progressive groove that preceded Analog Pussy's funky Arabia Electrica to conclude the Psybration compilation. From alien landscapes explored in a planetary rover to a tribal celebration in a deep and dark forest, Psybration brings many complementary energies and vibes to the listener. The compilation brings to mind the changing force fields of an electro-magnetic flux storm or the thoughtful manipulation of a frantic crowd by twisting knobs and tweaking sliders. Mad scientists concocting the ultimate mind-twisting potion and rocket pilots strapped into cockpits are your hosts on this aural exploration of the Psybrations rocking secret dance-floors around the world and perhaps on others!
