This report is for anyone that's doing business online and is currently using or plans on using affiliates to promote their products or services. No matter which niche they're in. Since no two people are exactly alike, it just makes sense to assume that your affiliates will have different wants and needs when it comes to promotional methods and materials. Even if you had only two affiliates, the odds of both of them having the same outlook and ideals would be extremely low. So why is it that most product owners provide their affiliates with only a couple different types of promotional materials? And even worse yet, why do they usually provide them with only one or two ways to use them? As an online business owner, running your own affiliate program, you should always keep this one thing in mind: Provide your affiliates with as many different ways to promote your products as possible.
