Energetic powerpop/post-punk from Texas. 5 MP3 Songs POP: Power Pop, ROCK: Modern Rock
Details: long story short: After the indie pop band Enola dissolved, remaining members Andrew, Aaron, and James decided to reform anew with their friend Mykie as a band called American Radio Flyer. After much rehearsal during summer of 2006, we played our first show with Kind of Like Spitting and then decided that things were good enough to record some songs. After these sessions, we continued to play shows, ended up parting ways with Mykie, played some more shows, and then pressed an EP of the recording we made. We think this CD is pretty good. Maybe other people will even think its great. But regardless of whatever self-aggrandizing sales techniques we try to use, these songs are in our blood, and there was really nothing else we could do but play them over and over again. -American Radio Flyer, January 2007
