Barruecos recording catalogue includes over a dozen

recordings for the EMI label. His recording of Joaquin Rodrigo's Concierto de Aranjuez with conductor and tenor Plcido Domingo and the Philharmonia Orchestra was cited as the best recording of that piece in Classic CD Magazine, while Cuba! was called "an extraordinary musical achievement" by the San Francisco Chronicle. Nylon Steel, a collection of duos with guitar greats Al Di Meola, Steve Morse (Deep Purple), and Andy Summers (The Police), demonstrates Barrueco's outstanding versatility and imaginative programming. His latest release, Concierto Barroco, with the Orquesta Sinfónica de Galicia and conductor Vctor Pablo Prez, received a Latin Grammy nomination for Best Classical Recording. This CD contains the world premiere recordings of new works for guitar and orchestra by Roberto Sierra and Arvo Prt, as well as two guitar concertos by Antonio Vivaldi. Other recordings encompass many of the works from the Spanish and Latin American repertoire, as well as Bach and Mozart, Keith Jarrett and Chick Corea etcetera. He collaborated with soprano Barbara Hendricks and flutist Emmanuel Pahud in Cantos y Danzas, with The Kings Singers on a Strauss album, and with the London Symphony on Manuel Barrueco plays Lennon McCartney. His early recordings, available on VOX, have become a classic amongst guitar recordings. Barrueco's commitment to contemporary music and to the expansion of the guitar repertoire has led him to collaborations with many distinguished composers such as Steven Stucky, Michael Daugherty, Roberto Sierra, Arvo Prt and Toru Takemitsu, whose last orchestral work Spectral Canticle was a double concerto written specifically for Manuel Barrueco and violinist Frank Peter Zimmerman. Manuel Barrueco has appeared on a wide array of American television programs including "CBS Sunday Morning", A&E's "Breakfast with the Arts", and "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" on PBS. His work in music also inspired Michael Lawrences biographical documentary: Manuel Barrueco: A Gift and a Life which has been aired by PBS stations around the United States including WNET-TV in New York. He was also featured in a Lexus car commercial. Barruecos performances have been broadcast by television stations around the world such as NHK in Japan, Bayerische Rundfunk in Germany, and RTVE in Spain. Manuel Barrueco began playing the guitar at the age of eight, and he attended the Esteban Salas Conservatory in his native Cuba. He immigrated with his family to the United States in 1967, as political refugees. Later, he completed his advanced studies at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, where he now shares his love for teaching with a small number of exceptionally gifted young guitarists from all over the world.
