Free jazz meets Death metal where THE HUB is modern hybrid of funk, funk, hard core, jazz, and hip-hop. This instrumental jazz trio does not play tunes that should be listened to on a romantic date. 11 MP3 Songs JAZZ: Jazz Fusion, METAL: Instrumental Metal Details: "THE HUB, with a growing reputation as undiscovered gems, are rapidly developing a dedicated cult following." BBC Radio 3 THE HUB is a band whose appetite for far flung sounds often defies categorization and whose members, Sean Noonan, Tim Dahl, Dan Magay play with the conviction and ferocity of men on a mission. A look at their recent European tour schedule indicates that they could be on the road as often as AC/DC. After initially shocking audiences with their eclectic array of original compositions, THE HUB have earned a loyal fan base worldwide. HUB fans have even been known to travel up to six hours to see them perform. So who is THE HUB? "Maniacally exhilarating, gripping in its precision and energy, a real breath of fresh air." John Fordham - The Guardian (U.K) THE HUB is creating a new movement in jazz joining diverse music listeners from the hard core/metal, punk, new music, and electronic music scenes. Their latest album release "Trucker" is another existential leap that is described as, "Clearly a totally new form of music with an aggressive heavy metal touch belied by a jazz sensibility and control." Jeremy Hurewitz - Prague Post "Trucker" comes straight out of the Brooklyn underground music scene where they create a sonic amalgam of hip-hop, hardcore, punk, funk, and freeform jazz improvisation. All of these modes lead to music with originality . "Trucker" is now available in record stores worldwide providing an irresistible force for progressive music listeners everywhere.
