Born Richard Laughner on December 24, 1960 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Richard Frankz became an orphan at the age of two. Placed in a Savannah, Georgia foster home with his two brothers and four other children, Richard took to the guitar early and soon found himself lost in his world of music. He first stepped onto the stage as a child, performing at school and community events. Through his music that he has sought to answer the questions "Where is my home?" and "What is my purpose in life?" By far, Richard's greatest accomplishment in life is his son, Franke. A gift given to him when life couldn't seem darker or colder, Franke has been a source of healing, peace and inspiration. He is an image of his father and loves to perform alongside him. There is nothing more precious than seeing Franke mimicking dad, singing "Why Tell Me Why." The song "Soul Of Me" (track 7, "Songs Within My Soul") was inspired by and written for Franke. Richard Frankz loves his country music and his rock and roll, but his real passion is in his ballads. Richard writes and choreographs all of his music himself. His debut album "Songs Within My Soul" combines the thoughtful music of yesterday's favorite country ballads with the upbeat tempo of today's popular music. Richard has bared his soul and embraced many causes through his music. He has written songs like "I Cry Too," dedicated to fight domestic violence. He also wrote "Stand On Your Own," dedicated to the D.A.R.E. program helping youth take a stand against drugs. Now with his latest album Point of View, Richard does not disappoint you with his uncanny ability to write remarkably insightful songs in nearly every genre imaginable. From Pop to Rock, Latin to R&B, Richard draws inspiration from every angle and awes the listener with his melodies, lyrics and hooks. Youll hear Richards range, from his romantic ballads within Dear Baby, Each Day to Knew You at All (hitting the charts at 33 during its 1st week out), to Over and Over and Holding On. Then finally giving you the rock and roll, with Beginnings of New and Learning How to Fly. Currently, Richard is working on his much anticipated third album Time of Our Lives scheduled for release at the end of 2006
