The fact that his listeners have associated his sound with such different genres shows that we are dealing with a unique and authentic style of music here. His songs are mostly a musical catalysis of own experiences, which take on the perspective of everyday life, without however losing the focus on major issues. His guitar playing incorporates elements of Rock-, Pop, Blues-, and Jazz music and his expressive voice not only manages to credibly combine these different styles but also to transport his poetic lyrics with a lot of feeling and intimacy. The listener can look forward to a varied and moving sound. Sometimes moving the heart, sometimes the body.
