Traditional and contemporary Irish, Scottish, Welsh, East European, Indian, North American and Native American songs and instrumentals. 21 MP3 Songs FOLK: Celtic Folk, WORLD: Celtic Details: We are not a traditional Irish band, but a unique and eclectic group dedicated to spiritual connections between fellow humans and our world. We hope to uplift humanity in some small way through the magic of myth, music and dance. The term Celtic Music is an interesting one. Although most people think of Celtic as being Irish music (which does compose a large part of it, along with Scottish), actually it comprises music as far east as India, and to the west as far as the Pacific coast of North America.

The Celtic Ensemble was originally formed under the name Rowan Tree in 1985. The original group was composed of Jos Carvajal on whistle and harmonica, Claudia Poquoc, lead singer and on bodhran, Jack Hayden, guitar and vocals, and Carlos Warner, rhythmic bones and artwork. In 1995 the group went through a metamorphosis of mythic dimensions with the aid of their Celtic music mentor, Seonaidh Carlisle, who was a native Gaelic speaker. They began playing at Twiggs Green Room in San Diego every Sunday in 1997. While there, they were joined by classically trained violinist and composer, Tim Brittain, who brings profound magical composition as well as passionate fiddle to the group. The Celtic Ensemble performs eclectic tunes as well as their own original songs and tunes.
