Thanks to two of his uncles who are accomplished musicians, he was exposed, at an early age, to a variety of musical forms from all over the world. As a child, he would surprise his uncles by his ability to remember intricate musical patterns. However, The Neech did not grow up to be a professional musician. Instead, he chose an engineering career and kept music as a hobby. He taught himself to play keyboards and flute, played and sang in high school bands, and later, played in several bands with friends. He also enjoys playing keyboards with his church choir. However, The Neech's real talent has always been in creating and arranging his own music. Today's technological advances have made it possible for an individual to experiment with his musical ideas and translate musical thoughts into real musical products. The Neech has been experimenting with this technology. His first CD, introduced here, is a sampling of songs that were conceived in his mind over a period of several years. The selections are a testimony to the fact that The Neech will not confine himself to one genre, but will explore R&B, Reggae, Smooth Jazz, etc., and will go wherever his creativity carries him. Whatever the style, it is high energy music.
