The Essential Twitter Guide Twitter is an online social media website. Anyone can use Twitter, as long as they have Internet access and an email account for sign up. There are many aspects that make this site interesting and quite unique from other forms of socialization. Twitter is much like a quick wave to a neighbor, to let them know what you are up to, but instead of being person to person contact, it is done online. Twitter is growing by leaps and bounds, due to the number of news organizations, online gurus and celebrities that have taken to it. You can also use Twitter to help you to grow your Internet marketing business. For the Internet marketer, Twitter is one of the best, potentially the largest, social media tool you can use for Internet marketing. Here are a few ways that Twitter can be useful to your Internet marketing business.: Use Twitter to create a group of people who share ideas, thoughts, and sectors with you. If you are in the real estate niche, find others that are as well. This can help you to grow your knowledge and help you to connect with others to learn what they are doing, successfully.. Promote your blog topics or your articles. With a simple link, you can communicate with your entire following (no matter how large that is) about what is happening at your blog or the article you just posted. This can help you to draw more people in, increasing your traffic. Place your Twitter feed at your website. If you want to let your website readers learn more about what you are doing on Twitter, you can have each of your Twitter updates automatically imbedded on your website. Use Twitter to help promote your online product or sales directly. While you want to avoid spamming people, you definitely want to encourage people to check out what you have to offer. Make sure these types of links are used minimally. Use Twitter to help create your web presence. If you are new to Internet marketing, you may need to show others that you are someone that knows that they are talking about. You can do that by just communicating and sharing knowledge online, to those who you meet and talk to.
