Calvin Rock "Vocalist Extraordinaire" - Music Biography From the first note produced by this marvelous singer/musician/writer/producer you will agree that he has the Midas touch. Since the age of 4, Calvin Rock! has been an entertainer and promised to set the standard for the 1990's and beyond. Born in Southern Virginia, Calvin grew up in a household of Gospel music. Calvin's grandmother was instrumental in writing such songs as "Uncloudy Day" and "Let Jesus Lead You". With all this positive music in his household Calvin Rock! absorbed the inspiration and talent at an early age that he needed to be an innovator in a competitive music industry. While completing his early education, Rock, as he is affectionately called, made a name for himself in talent shows consistently coming out in first place with his gifted vocal ability and dance routines. Calvin Rock's musical career became official upon coming to New York to attend Brooklyn College where he majored in music and classical guitar. There he received his formal training in college while performing in clubs, churches, as well as studio sessions for such notables as Pearl Bailey, Harry Belafonte, and Jimmy Seigler. Calvin also expanded upon his experience making a name for himself as a jazz bassist, performing with such notables as Winton Marsalis, Kenny Kirkland, and Buster Williams. While earning a living as a respected musician, Calvin was asked to sing on several off-Broadway productions such as

"Sister Salvation" and "Yesterday Meets Today" making his official entrance in the music industry as a lead vocalist performing artist.
